

Princely Present to Baby Bell

Miss Helen Gould Sends Handsome
Dinner Service to Colorado
Namesake.

Special to The Tribune.

DENVER, Dec. 11.—Miss Helen Miller Gould's gift to her namesake, Miss Helen Gould Bell, the baby daughter of Adjt.-Gen. Bell of Colorado, is a massive, solid-silver dinner service with gold-lined cups. Every piece, and there are over 100 pieces, contains the initials of the little recipient of the princely gift. One plate bears the inscription, "Helen G. Bell from Helen Miller Gould, 1904."

The gift arrived at the Bell home last night, in a massive rosewood chest, and is probably finer than any silver service owned in the West. Mrs. Bell and the baby are in Colorado Springs, where Mrs. Bell is visiting a sister, Gen. Bell received the gift and is delighted. In company with the soldiers who served with him in the Cuban campaign and who learned much of Miss Gould's philanthropic undertakings, Gen. Bell almost idolizes the daughter of the late financier.

The service was sent from New York City, but the card which accompanied it bore the inscription, "With love and best wishes for dear little Helen Gould Bell, from Helen Miller Gould, Lyndhurst, Irvington-on-Hudson."

Miss Gould's namesake was 3 months old Tuesday, so the gift is a sort of birthday present. Gen. Bell says it will be the one highly prized heirloom in the Bell family.

KING OF MOOSE ISLAND DEAD

Dog Watched All Night at Hole in Ice Where He Fell.

BANGOR, Me., Dec. 11.—The body of old John Cusack, the "Hermit King" of Moose Island, in Moosehead lake, has been found. He was drowned Monday afternoon by breaking through the ice within fifteen rods of the shore.

Nothing was known of the accident until a man living on the shore opposite the island saw a small dog on the ice, acting in a peculiar manner. As the dog remained in the same spot for some hours, an investigation was made, and it was found that the animal was intently watching a hole in the ice, which he refused to leave.

It was found that Cusack had not been in his hotel since Monday morning, when he left it on a trip to Greenville. The dog had watched at the hole all night. Men grappled through the hole in the ice and recovered the body.

John Cusack was about 70 years old. He was known for thirty years or longer as the King of Moose Island, where he was owner and sole resident. He lived by farming, log driving and guiding, and was one of the most peculiar characters in Maine. His expertise with rifle and paddle and as a performer of daring feats on logs in rough water were known everywhere. Disappointed in love early in life, he retired to Moose Island and there lived with no companion except a dog. Years ago he chiseled a tomb for himself in a great stone on the island, and there his remains will be laid. His relatives live in St. John, N. B.

GIRLS MAKE THINGS LIVELY.

"Physical Culturists" From Chicago
Achieve Fame in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 11.—Mrs. M. B. Bridwell today swore out warrants for the arrest of two physical culturists, Laura McHugh and Lily West, of Chicago, but more recently of Philadelphia. The girls engaged a room at her home and strange noises emanating from it caused all the trouble.

Mrs. Bridwell went upstairs and looked into the room. She saw the young women in athletic bloomers. One was wrestling with a big medicine ball, while the other was punching a bag. Abandoning these amusements, they began to perform various acrobatic feats. Mrs. Bridwell asked what they were doing.

"Why, my dear," replied one, "we are physical culturists."

When she told the girls they had to move, they chased her downstairs. She darted into her own room and locked the door. Laura put her foot against it and broke the lock. Mrs. Bridwell "ducked" under a night gown and fled to her room and hurried to the sidewalk. It is charged that Laura bit a piece out of the headboard of the bed and Lily tossed a Japanese vase through the mirror; that they made a wreck of the room and when they left they carried their trunks under their arms.

TONGUE PARALYZED.

Malady Confined to Throat and Tongue—Dies of Starvation.

SYRACUSE, Dec. 11.—Mrs. Laura C. Myrto of this city, 66 years old, died last week from starvation due to paralysis of the tongue and throat. The paralysis was noticeable nowhere except in the tongue and throat, and the woman could use all parts of her body easily and went about the house doing her work, until weakened by starvation. She died on Monday, not far from the end of a long and painful struggle. The case is pronounced unusual by the physicians. The woman's tongue became what is commonly known as "thick," and she had difficulty in articulation. The trouble increased until the throat was affected and there was difficulty in swallowing.

Solids finally had to be discarded entirely and for months Mrs. Myrto lived on a liquid diet. She was entirely speechless. She could make some sounds, but they were meaningless. During the last fifteen days of her illness she took not more than a dozen spoonfuls of nourishment, that being liquid, and toward the last she received none at all.

ORDERS FOR RESERVE SHIPS

New Scheme for War Emergency in the English Navy.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The admiralty has issued a circular to all naval commanders explaining Lord Selbourne's scheme, which becomes effective on January 1, and detailing the organization of warships of the reserve. Each ship on the war list not in commission at sea will be kept in the reserve and have a nucleus crew comprising the officers and two-fifths of the war crew, including all experts in torpedo and gunnery ratings.

The reserve ships will be distributed between three home ports and provision will be made for surplus crews in barracks to enable six battleships or first-class cruisers to be fully commissioned on emergency without dislocating the general mobilization arrangement.

HELPED HUSBAND ELOPE.

Wife's Love Given Remarkable Test
Shown in Chicago Divorce Court.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—A romance of more than a year ago, when Harold Mackay, deserting his wife, Anna, eloped with Mrs. Louis Vallancourt, leaving behind her husband, Samuel Vallancourt, and two children, was aired last week in court, when the deserted husband's plea for a divorce was granted.

An extract from a letter of Mrs. Vallancourt to her husband says: "When I met Harry, I found a sincere friend—something I had never known before. After that I learned something more and you may now understand why I know so much about real love. I can be happy with him in a dugout, and we may have to live in one yet. I gave everything for love and it is worth it."

Another letter says: "You may wonder how Anna could let us do as we have. She even helped us pack our trunks. She knows what love is as she, too, loved him truly and can understand how and why I can do as I did. For her I have every sympathy and will help Harry do all he can in return for his fidelity. I will give up everything for her that I can."

When she told the girls they had to move, they chased her downstairs. She darted into her own room and locked the door. Laura put her foot against it and broke the lock. Mrs. Bridwell "ducked" under a night gown and fled to her room and hurried to the sidewalk. It is charged that Laura bit a piece out of the headboard of the bed and Lily tossed a Japanese vase through the mirror; that they made a wreck of the room and when they left they carried their trunks under their arms.

DEPRESSED STOCKS.

Break in New York Checked Business in Every Direction.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The unexpected break in the American market depressed all sections of the London stock exchange last week and checked business in every direction. It is believed, however, that the general effect upon the markets will be beneficial. The last British board of trade returns were favorable and the opinion here is that trade prospects in the United States are good. It is also considered that the approach of the fall of the Paris market for peace, which would steady the markets throughout Europe. Russian stocks, in spite of news from Port Arthur, are still remarkably strong. French investors being apparently undisturbed by the progress of the war. It is expected the market will remain inactive until the opening of the new year, when business should rise.

RARE SOUVENIR OF EXPOSITION

Gold Dollars That Are Valuable.

Louis and Clark Exposition
Coins Prove Very Popular.

Jewelers Find Many Ways of Making Them Attractive to Friends of Northwest.

PORTLAND, Or., Dec. 11.—Lewis and Clark souvenir gold dollars, which sell for $2 each, are proving popular, as was expected, and the first issue of 25,000 coins will soon be exhausted if the demand for the souvenirs continues.

When the appropriation was made for the fair by Congress a clause in the bill provided for the coinage of the gold dollars, the issue being limited to 250,000. The coins are of the size of the gold dollar which was formerly current, being somewhat smaller than a dime. They are different from any other coin ever circulated in that they have two heads or obverses. This was made necessary by the fact that it was desired to give credit on the coin to both Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, the explorers whose expedition a century ago, in the words of President Roosevelt, "marked the beginning of the process of exploration and colonization which thrust our national boundaries to the Pacific." On the side of the coin bearing the likeness of Capt. Clark are the words "United States of America" and "One Dollar." On the other side are the portrait of Capt. Lewis, the words "Lewis-Clark Expedition, Portland, Or.," and the date "1904." The coin has neither wreath nor stars.

Young Women Sell Coins.

The sale of the Lewis and Clark souvenir coins is being pushed in various ways. In September the executive committee of the Portland Commercial club appointed a committee of fifty young women to take charge of the sale. The committee met and it was decided that each member was to secure four others for the committee, giving the completed committee a membership of 200. The committee also adopted a resolution requesting every man in Oregon to wear one of the coins. The first coin to be put into circulation was sent by the young women to the first young lady in the land, Miss Alice Roosevelt, who has acknowledged the courtesy shown her.

The immediate object of the exposition in putting the coins into circulation is to realize funds for the fair. It is asserted, however, that the coins will in a few years be worth more than their face value, as rarities. The government coins the souvenirs at their face value, and the difference between that price and the selling price represents the exposition company's profit. The coins are sold in lots of six for $10, and storekeepers, attracted by the small profit possible for them, are displaying them in their windows.

Monument to Sacajawea.

Jewelers are tastefully mounting the coins for scarfpins, brooches and pendants for watchfobs, and in this form they are selling rapidly.

A circumstance that has greatly enhanced the popularity of the coins among the women is the fact that the proceeds from every sixth coin will go toward a fund for the erection of a monument to Sacajawea, the "Bird Woman." It was the "Bird Woman" who accompanied Lewis and Clark on their first journey to Oregon. Sacajawea shared with the men in the party the dangers and hardships of the long march, and her heroism on two occasions saved the lives of the company. It is natural, then, that the women of today should feel a deep interest in the brown-skinned sister who, next to Lewis and Clark, is deserving of recognition. The statue to Sacajawea will be placed in the center of the Columbia court on the exposition grounds.

DERIDE "GOLD CURE."

Chicago Physicians Call Paris Man's "Discovery" Foolish.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Chicago physicians ridiculed the "gold cure" treatment for pneumonia. The "sensational" communication made by Dr. Albert Robin to the Paris Academie des Medecines was cast aside as being too trivial for consideration. "I read the article but there is nothing in it," said Dr. Hugh T. Patrick. "I have no time to discuss these foolish propositions. The idea of using metals in medicine is not new, and if there was anything in this gold or silver cure it would have been used long ago."

Dr. Edward F. Wells, a specialist on pneumonia, declared there was no virtue in the "metallic ferments," such as Dr. Robin had described. "The subject of pneumonia treatment," he said, "is one of the most important that confronts the medical profession today, and physicians have made their best efforts to produce a cure. Dr. Robin's theory, however, seems too foolish. The Chicago Medical society has set aside two nights for discussion of pneumonia, and these talks, I believe, will be of more benefit."

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR HER.

President Roosevelt Will Decide the Dodge Necklace Case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The President has determined to take the question of Mrs. Dodge's diamond necklace under further advisement, and to decide finally whether it can be restored to her on payment of the customs duties and penalties, or whether it will have to be sold at auction, as ordered by Secretary Gage when he was at the head of the Treasury department several years ago. That order had been suspended several times, while Mrs. Dodge carried an appeal to the United States Supreme court, which recently declined to issue a writ of certiorari in the case.

Soon after the court disposed of the appeal Secretary Shaw ordered that Secretary Gage's original order be executed, and the sale was advertised, but Mrs. Dodge's attorneys induced the President to intervene, pending further investigation. Attorney General Moody and District Attorney Burnett gave the President strong reasons why the law should be allowed to take its course, but Edward Lauterbach and Wickham Smith, representing Mrs. Dodge, went to the White House in company with Secretary Shaw and after listening to both sides for an hour the President decided to look into the case further. The law gives the secretary of the Treasury discretion as to acceptance of payment of duties in such cases, and the Treasury department and the Department of Justice have up to the present time declined to revoke Secretary Gage's order or modify it in any way.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 11.—Navigation throughout the St. Lawrence canal closed yesterday. During the season 220 vessels passed through the 1700 last year. The vessels this year averaged larger and brought the total tonnage up to about last year's figures.

RECKLESS TARGET PRACTICE

Ship Captain Protests Against Dangerous Shooting by Gunboat.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Capt. Mills of the American line steamship Philadelphia has ordered a protest against reckless target practice carried on off Plymouth. He says that as he approached the harbor on Saturday with nearly 1000 persons on board their safety was endangered by a gunboat which persisted in firing, even after the patrol launch apprised the gunboat of the liner's approach. Capt. Mills adds that he was obliged twice to stop and go full speed astern to avoid disaster.

ON DIVORCES ON CONFESSION Unique Letters Filed as Evidence.

Defendants in Each Case
Furnish All of the Testimony.

Court Grants Decrees Without Further Effort to Fortify Decision
With Proof.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Correspondents of two divorce cases, in which decrees were granted yesterday by Judge Maroon of the Supreme court in Brooklyn made written confessions. All the parties to the suits seem more than satisfied, and the disentanglements are devoid of the usual distress that accompanies such incidents, although there are nine children arrested. John T. King, and Kate S. Britton, has been divorced from Charles S. Britton.

Mr. Britton was the correspondent in Mr. King's suit, and Mrs. King was the cause of the trouble between Mr. Britton and his wife. The testimony was taken in both cases before Judge Maroon on November 1, then that of the Kings. Not the slightest trace of jealousy was shown on the part of any of the men or women involved.

Something that was possible was done further the dissolution of the two marriages. Charles Melville Weeks, who represented Mrs. Britton, called her to the witness stand in the trial, and she testified that she was married to Britton in Atlantic City, Pa., on August 16, 1888. Her present home is at Bath Beach.

Things Made Easy by Letter.

That was all she was permitted to tell. In her complaint she said that on August 1 last her husband was living with Mrs. Mathilda F. King in Captain Van der Kerk's farm house near Princeton. All J. Britton was called to prove that his father was living with Mrs. King.

Things were made easy by letter. Mr. Britton made the following written confession for the convenience of his wife's lawyer. "Dear Mr. Weeks—I beg to notify you that the statements made by Mrs. Britton in the complaint are substantially correct. I did call on Mrs. King at her home in Elmhurst and spent many evenings while Mr. King was away in New York at his work as night telegraph operator. Mrs. King and I came over to Captain Van Kerk's place on the outskirts of Princeton. Mr. Britton and I have lived here since August 1 last. She is now known as Mrs. Britton introduced under the name of Mrs. Britton."

One of the six children of the Brittons are living with the father, and in suit Mrs. Britton asked for the custody of the eldest and the youngest. Her request was granted.

Another Letter Settles Second Case.

The second chapter of the story is built round the suit of the Kings and it reads like the Britton chapter. Mr. King testified he was married to Mrs. King on December 16, 1885. He accused his wife of the same offense that with which the Britton accused her husband. The decision in this case was from Mr. King and real.

Mr. King had read the statements by Mr. Britton with reference to his calling on Mrs. King at her home in Elmhurst and spent many evenings while Mr. King was away in New York at his work as night telegraph operator, and also a statement that I had over to Captain Van Kerk's place on the outskirts of Princeton; that I have lived there ever since as his wife and that I am now known as Mrs. Britton. These statements are true."

Mr. King, who lives at No. 28 East Fifty-ninth street, Manhattan, did not ask for custody of his three children, who are under their mother in Princeton. According to the testimony, Mr. King took process server to the Annex ferry, Brooklyn, on October 27 last, and introduced Mrs. King to the ferry. Thereupon the papers in both cases were served at the same time. The court granted an interlocutory decree, and at the end of ninety days decrees of absolute divorce will be granted.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Rev. John W. Hawick, the well-known Unitarian preacher and writer, died today of heart failure at his home in Brooklyn, aged 65 years. He had been pastor of the Second Unitarian church in Brooklyn for almost 15 years.

THE OLD AND NEW WAY

Some Important Facts Which May Prove Helpful.

Thirty years ago old-fashioned cod liver oil had to be taken down a patient's throat. Invalids couldn't take it, and children wouldn't. But the doctors prescribed it, and it had to be taken by force. Yet it cured people where enough could be taken into the system, for it has been the greatest of all thesovereigns and general reconstructors known to medicine.

We are now anxious to have every one know that Vinol is a new form of this old and valuable remedy, cod liver oil contained in a concentrated form of the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cod fish, but by a new process it is made palatable to the taste as is from orange. Vinol does not upset the stomach like old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions. Its strengthening and healing properties are remarkable and both doctors and patients are delighted with its use. Many wonderful cures right here in Salt Lake City have been effected by its use. Vinol on all of our customers to try it on our guarantee to return money any time it fails to make rich, red blood, increase the appetite, cure stomach troubles, give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, run down, tired and debilitated, or cure chronic colds, hacking coughs or bronchitis.
